"Red Mushrooms," acrylic on panel, 60 x 48 in.

"Heart Kissing," acrylic on panel, 30 x 24 in.

"Shout," acrylic on panel, 40 x 40 in.

"Wild Child" connects me back to a series of paintings that I created mostly from 2007 to 2016 in which children are the main characters. For this exhibition, I have absorbed myself with the inner child first and foremost. One of the members of my inner family. What are they telling me? What are they sensing? What wisdom do they possess? How can I care for and nurture them? Their favorite environment is nature— the all-healing place; the inner sacred garden; a place in which, as an adult, I find deep healing and comfort in my daily life and is in such close reach to my home in Seattle. Elements of dreams, fairy tales, and my own childhood also play a significant role." - Anne Siems

Joan Wortis, Gallivanting, 2023, collage with handmade Japanese paper on panel, 14 x 11 inches

Opening Reception: March 7th, 5-8pm. Artist in attendance.

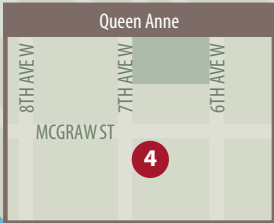

Experience three decades of artistic evolution with Joan Wortis' bold monotype collages and elegantly folded textile wall-sculptures. Inspired by her careers in modern dance, hand-weaving and textile design, Wortis' works are visual poems infused with rhythmic gestures. As the artist celebrates her 90th birthday, Found Forms pays tribute to her enduring creativity and innovation. Join us in honoring this milestone and immerse yourself in her captivating artistic journey.
