INTRODUCING: JITE AGBRO (2022)

LOOKING BACK & LOOKING AHEAD

This year Patricia Rovzar Gallery celebrates its 30th year. Reminiscing this milestone, I feel incredibly fortunate to be surrounded by the extraordinary gifts a career working in the arts has afforded. PRG has tremendous gratitude for the many relationships this amazing journey has nurtured. Through the contributions of our artists, both past and present, we have had the privilege & honor of helping to build the art collections of our many friends and supporters, without whom PRG's successes would not have been realized. As a woman owned business, I know how fortunate I am to have flourished in an arena that has traditionally been shaped by gender bias. It is my sincere hope that as my gallery director, Leah Marlow, and I look toward the future, we not only continue our ongoing commitment of presenting inspired art programming, but that we further cultivate and advocate for women in the arts. Art is a powerful conduit for expression and a bridge for building community. Let us learn, grow and inspire - together.

With Gratitude, Patricia Rovzar
